Introduction

This document represents the California Historic State Capitol Commission's annual report for the year 2010, with highlights of its activities and accomplishments for the calendar year. Also included are the Commission's goals for 2011. The activities and accomplishments for the year are organized by subject matter: art, furnishings, maintenance, outside projects, and one or two highlights. Included in the appendix is a copy of the Commission's statute and bylaws.

Summaries and goals from past years are included in the 2003 Annual Report and are available upon request. The 1999 Annual Report includes summaries of the Commission's art, furnishings, and maintenance activities and accomplishments for calendar years 1976-1995. It is also available upon request.

BACKGROUND

Prior to the 1976 California Capitol Restoration Project, there existed no guidelines or advisory authority to preserve and maintain the historical integrity of the Capitol and its artifacts, antiques and art. Consequently, succeeding administrations were unrestricted and free to do as they saw fit with the premises, its architecture and historical contents. By Joint Resolution of the Legislature in February 1976, however, the Restoration Project was declared the State's Bicentennial Project and a Capitol Commission was authorized to protect its historical and architectural restoration integrity in perpetuity. The Commission was to be composed of qualified persons in architecture, history and government who would review the maintenance and use of the landmark.

Officially established in 1984 at the close of the Capitol Restoration Project, the seven-member Commission was provided specific powers to review and advise the Legislature on any development, improvement, or change in the Historic State Capitol. The Commission met sporadically from September 1985 through April 1987. In 1998, the Commission reconvened with new members and recommitted itself to establishing advisory and working relationships with other stewards of the Historic State Capitol, as well as following its statutory charges.

One such requirement is to provide an annual report to the Legislature on its activities.

Members of the Legislature and Interested Parties:

On behalf of all of the Historic State Capitol Commissioners, I am proud to forward you our 2010 Annual Report.

The report gives you some details on our focused efforts this year and the Goals for 2011, which both focus on these unchanging, important issues:

We need a Master Plan for Capitol Park, one that can guide further improvements and ensure the preservation of this unique asset. Through funding and scope questions, this task has not moved as quickly as we had hoped. We will press in 2011 for attainment of this goal.

We need to find a way to limit the proliferation of monuments in Capitol Park. Enacting guidance on the scale of future monuments and finding alternate locations for monuments are both elements of a strategy to accommodate valid requests for recognition, while preserving the intent and beauty of Capitol Park.

We should find ways to not only preserve, but improve the visual corridors of the Historic State Capitol. We have met with the City of Sacramento and the Capital Area Development Authority and find all partners willing to work with us to find ways to improve the current view access of the Capitol.

Finally, we have begun work to improve the Commission's usefulness to you by increasing our contact and feedback to Legislative members and their staff.

We thank you for the opportunity to serve and invite your questions and guidance.

Sincerely,

Richard F. Cowan, PE
Chairman

Historic State Capitol Commission Activities and Accomplishments 2010

Throughout 2010, the Commission continued its advisory work with various agencies on projects both inside and outside the Capitol building. Despite the continual change in scope and priorities, members were regularly kept up to date by the Department of General Services (DGS) on the Capitol Park Master Plan and were asked to continue their support. Members were kept apprised on other Capitol projects, including the addition of new security cameras in Capitol Park. DGS also provided updates on Capitol Park projects.

In July, DGS provided a special budget briefing for the Commission. Members were instructed on the various budget sources for maintenance, repair and upkeep of state-owned properties, including the State Capitol Building.

The Commission continued to review and comment on the DGS-prepared infrastructure study, which addresses all aspects of the Capitol's maintenance for the next 20 years. Commission members offered knowledge and insight on "sustainable" products and other greening issues, including the repairs/replacement of the East Annex aluminum doors and window frames. Several Commission members are LEED-accredited professionals.

2010 also saw movement with the Commission's interest in the Capitol View Protection Plan and the redevelopment of Capitol Mall. Several members attended workshops hosted by the city's Economic Development Department. The Commission is now included in all Capitol Mall improvement meetings. Members continued their recommendations for judicious pruning of trees along the view corridor.

In February, members were given an informative presentation by the Office of Historic Preservation on the history of Capitol Mall, beginning in the 19th century.

Commission members were treated to a special presentation in July by the Military Order of the Purple Heart, Capital Chapter, concerning their proposed memorial in Capitol Park. Members continued their involvement with the Committee for the Beautification and Enhancement of the California Mexican-American Veteran's Memorial; the Commission Executive Officer attended monthly meetings and invited the Committee Chair to provide updates at the Commission's quarterly meetings.

Members again cautioned DGS on the need for a moratorium on memorials, and recommended that the North, South and West green areas remain clear.

State Parks provided an update on their exhibit schedule as well as plans for informational kiosks in the Capitol building. The Assembly apprised the Commission on completed lighting upgrades in the Assembly Chamber.

In September 2010, the Commission distributed their 2009 annual report to the Legislature.

Committee action for the year 2010

Maintenance Manual Committee

Purpose: to produce a maintenance manual for the continued use and preservation of the Historic State Capitol. According to its statute, the Commission is charged with developing “a comprehensive master plan for the restoration, preservation and maintenance of the Historic State Capitol.”

The Commission submitted a proposal for a maintenance plan to the Legislature in 2003. The Legislature responded, stating that due to budget constraints, the proposed manual would have to remain on hold; however, a more modest proposal should be submitted in 2005/06. A greatly-reduced proposal was submitted in mid-2005; due to a lack of funds, the proposal was again denied. Subcommittee members decided to reexamine the manual idea and focus their attentions on establishing a more productive working relationship with DGS and other agencies. DGS completed its infrastructure study for long-term maintenance; members reviewed and provided comments. Members discussed holding a charette to discuss maintenance issues. DGS continued to work on a custodial portion in order to meet state guidelines for sustainable and green/certified green products.

Annual Report Committee

Purpose: to produce an annual report for the Legislature that would include a history of the Commission and a list of its activities. According to its statute, the Commission is charged with such a duty, to “annually report to the Legislature on its activities.”

The subcommittee completed the 2009 report, which was distributed to an extensive mailing list in September 2010.

Capitol Restoration Project Repository Committee

Purpose: to identify current locations of all Capitol Restoration Project (CRP) materials and make recommendations to the Legislature regarding the most appropriate storage and care of these materials.

Having received approval from Joint Rules in 2002 to appoint the State Archives as the centralized repository for all CRP materials, the subcommittee continued to gather materials. The salvaged South Portico pieces were re-identified and plans made to have them transferred to the Archives. Additional information was found on the Marvin Breinas oral histories; members discussed the logistics of expanding the oral history program. A Senate Rules Committee staffer continued her work on the ‘finders file’ of Restoration materials, expanding a contractor list and glossary, and scanning the collection of 5,000+ slides. Commission staff worked with the Archives staff to better identify Restoration Project materials stored in the Archives, transferring an additional 47 boxes to the collection. Members discussed the necessity of preventative preservation measures, and recommended lifting the restrictions on a portion of the materials.

Committee action for the year 2010 (con't)

Capitol View Protection Plan Committee

Purpose: to review the existing Capitol View Protection Plan and recommend whether an extension of the area defined by the plan is advisable.

Concern over the proposed developments along Capitol Mall prompted members to form a subcommittee to further examine the issue. Members attended numerous Capitol Mall improvement meetings and were involved in several workshops.

Communications Committee

Purpose: to help strengthen the Commission's relationship with Joint Rules Committee.

Commission Chair Cowan continued to meet with the Secretary of the Senate and the Assembly CAO to apprise them of the Commission's desire to cultivate and foster a better working relationship. Quarterly meetings were scheduled to keep both up to date on Commission business. Members also continued discussions on how to further relationships with legislative members (not just liaisons).

Capitol Park and Memorial Committee

Purpose: to examine and comment on the future development of memorials in Capitol Park.

Concern over the proliferation of memorials in Capitol Park prompted members to create a new subcommittee to further research alternatives to placing memorials in Capitol Park. Members would like to play a more active role in advising offices on proposed memorials and discussed the need for a memorial 'information' sheet. In the meantime, they continued to provide advice to DGS on planned memorials, and took an active role in the planning of the California Mexican-American Veterans Memorial.

HISTORIC STATE CAPITOL COMMISSION GOALS FOR 2011

Achieve the Capitol Park Master Plan and Memorial Moratorium

An outline for the development of the Capitol Park Master Plan was produced by the Department of General Services in 2002, but little has come of it. With the lack of a comprehensive Master Plan, the Commission, as well as other agencies, struggles with memorial/monument sites in and out of Capitol Park, infrastructure considerations, school visitations, programmatic improvements, security, landscape and wildlife issues, budget and funding constraints. In 2005, DGS selected a Master Plan consultant, but due to DGS's inability to scope the plan, additional funding was withheld. Funding was finally obtained late 2006, with additional funds budgeted a year later. Due to lack of progress and no DGS scheduling or management, funds were reverted in 2010.

Sustain Outreach and Visibility of Commission

It is the hope that each year members will strengthen the Commission by reinforcing a relationship with Legislative members and their staff in order to make them stronger advocates for the Historic State Capitol. A stronger Commission means improved working relations with various agencies and organizations and thus better preservation and maintenance of the Capitol.

Pursue Other Options for Creating an Integrated Maintenance Plan

Hand in hand with strengthening the Commission is the unchanging goal to provide a maintenance manual for the ongoing preservation and restoration of the Historic State Capitol. The Commission's charter mandates a maintenance manual (9149.7.a. To prepare, complete, and, from time to time, to amend, a comprehensive master plan, based on a priority of needs, for the restoration, preservation, and maintenance of the historic State Capitol). The Commission has yet to develop the right strategy to accomplish this fundamental goal.

Collaborate with Other Agencies on Capitol View Protection

Commission members have responsibility and strong opinions on the Capitol's environs. Of primary concern is the protection of the Capitol view along Capitol Mall. To that end, the Commission is increasing its communications with the City of Sacramento on issues affecting the Capitol Building and Capitol Mall. The Commission is also exploring an MOA with the City concerning any development project that permanently affects the Capitol Building.

Engage in Legislative Memorial and Capitol Budget Hearings

With the continued preservation and maintenance of the Capitol being the Commission's highest priority, members opted to increase their role in the prescreening process for proposed memorials, and in the funding of the maintenance and preservation of the Capitol and its environs.

Create the Memorial District to Relieve Pressure on Capitol Park

Recognizing the oftentimes futile attempts to keep memorials out of Capitol Park, the Commission is increasing its communications with the City of Sacramento, DGS and CADA on the concept of placing statewide significant monuments throughout the city. Capitol Park is overcrowded with memorials but citizen's groups desiring a monument at the Capitol have no other location suggested to them. Placing statewide monuments elsewhere, a policy that would benefit both the City and the State Capitol Building, seems appropriate to the City, State Real Estate officers, CADA, and the Commission. Timing is good as an update to the City's parks master plan is imminent. The Commission plans on achieving this concept through agreement among all of the affected groups.
